1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

> The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 6, line 3, "said inner core and said buffer layer" lack positive antecedent basis.

3. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970);and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

4. Claims 1-13 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-13 of U.S. Patent No. 5,498,227. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because pending claims are the same as the patented claims except for language to the inner core and the outer layer of the patented claims has been deleted making the pending claims broader in scope. Further the elimination of an element and subsequent loss of its function is an obvious modification to one skilled in the art if the remaining elements perform the same functions as before.

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

> A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –
> (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
> (e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

6. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Culver et al. Culver et al discloses an implantable wire(11) that has a radioactive material (18) deposited on it to deliver a predetermined dosage of radiation in the body. While Culver et al does not specifically teach implanting the wire in a body tissue site, this is directed to the intended use of the device and Culver et al is clearly capable of being implanted into tissue.

7. Claims 1 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipatd by Good.

Good teaches a radioactive implant that can be a wire for implanting into tissue in the body. The implant can be for permanent implantation and also teaches that it is known to use a ferromagnetic material (See abstract, column 8, lines 11-12, column 45, lines 49-52).

8. Claims 1-2, 5, 7-9 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Fischell et al '166.

Fischell et al discloses a radioactive stent that is implanted into the body. The stent is delivered to the site by a delivery catheter. Normally a balloon catheter is also used to inflate and thereby expand the stent to release the stent from being attached and place it in the body.

9. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

> (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

10. Claims 10-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Good.

Good teaches (column 13, lines 9-12) that many different layers of different materials can be used, therefore a modification to include layers of materials as claimed would have been obvious since this would merely be the selection of preferred materials based upon their suitability for the intended use.
